Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1, 5, 6, and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lin in view of Armstrong.

Lin discloses the use of a musical instrument case comprising a top portion for covering the headstock and tuning keys of the instrument; a body portion for covering the strings and neck of the instrument with one or more straps(14) to secure the body portion around the headstock; and an end portion for attaching the cover to the body of the instrument(see figure 2).

Lin does not disclose the use of a clear plastic cover.

Armstrong discloses the use of a clear plastic cover for a musical instrument (column 2, lines 1-5).

Lin and Armstrong do not explicitly disclose that a body of the instrument is uncovered permitting the user to view the uncovered body of the instrument.

However, the device as disclosed by Lin discloses the use of a cover with a means(12) for viewing an uncovered portion of the stringed instrument (see figure 4).

It would have been obvious to not of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the case as disclosed By Lin with the material as disclosed by Armstrong in order to provide a durable case for musical instruments with viewing capabilities.

3. Claims 2,3, and 4 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
